Boards U brings together the world's most respected commercial production companies to help develop and advance the careers of agency producers, creatives, account executives and clients involved in the purchase, creation and production of filmed content for advertising.

Leading experts from hand-picked companies in each discipline of production work with dedicated Boards production consultant Paul Mavis to develop independent, comprehensive presentations and support material outlining the key components of their respective fields. This material is designed to help Boards U students fully recognize and appreciate the art and process of each discipline in commercial production.

Enrollment in Boards U is limited and open exclusively to agency and freelance producers, creatives, writers and art-directors, agency account executives, business affairs managers and client-side marketers involved in commercial production and the origination of filmed content. Boards U is not open to production companies or reps, ensuring that students receive objective information in a closed and controlled environment.
